Importance of Dental as You Age

Staying up-to-date on oral health and visiting the dentist isn't just for children. Preventive checkups are especially important for adults over the age of 60 as you enter your second round of cavity-prone years.

According to the American Dental Association, a main cause of cavities in older adults is due to dry mouth. Dry mouth is a side-effect of many medications and after discussing your medications, your dentist will be able to make recommendations to help relieve your symptoms and prevent decay. Also during your routine exam, your dentist will be able to detect and treat early signs of gum disease or mouth cancer and other problems that typically do not cause pain early on. Early detection can save both lives and teeth!

Perfectly complement your Medicare plan

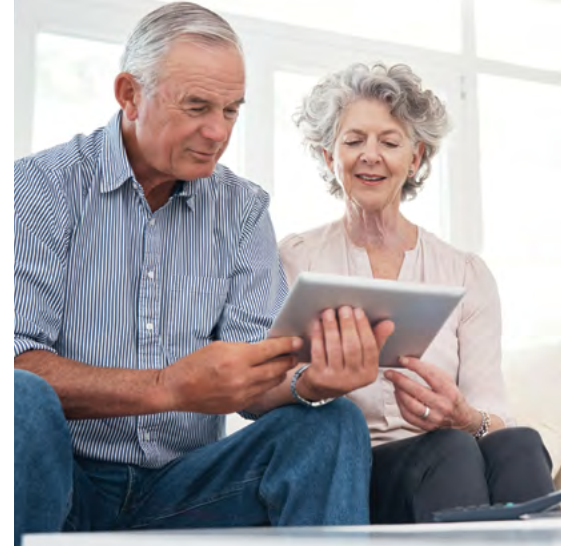

Medicare recipients are often surprised to learn that routine dental care isn't covered. The good news is that The Dental Care Plus Group (DCPG) provides plan options for every coverage need and budget. And – with no waiting periods on preventive services – there is no reason to skip routine cleanings because Medicare might not cover them. Your DCPG plan has got you covered.

Added value – vision and hearing discounts

To round out your health care needs, each individual dental plan comes standard with access to a vision and hearing discount program. The discounts provide substantial savings on your vision and hearing needs and are brought to you without any additional premiums to pay or claims to file.
