

Dental Care Plus Group promotes two members of senior management

Community Recorder; 1:28 p.m. EST January 14, 2014

The Dental Care Plus Group recently announced the promotions of Rebecca Hetzer to executive director of sales, established business and marketing, and Rachel Finn to director of established business.

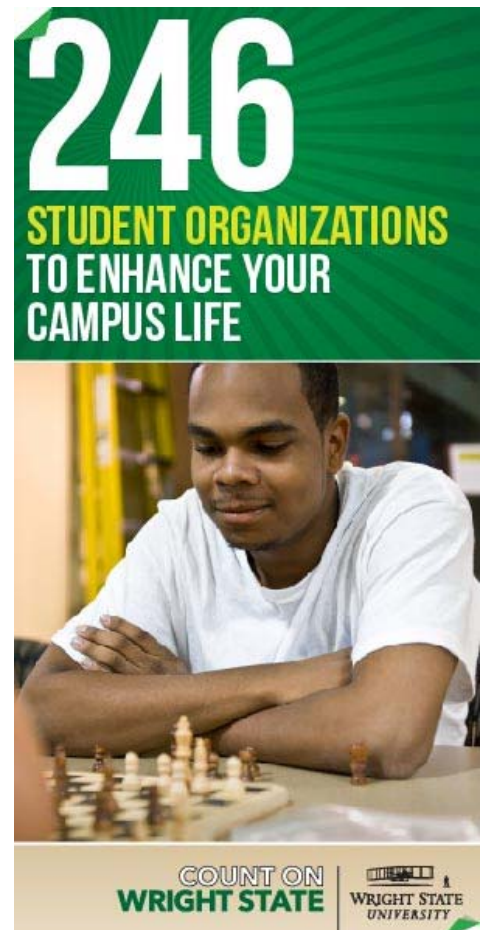

As executive director, Hetzer will oversee new sales and the renewal of DCPG's existing book of business. She will also work with the marketing and corporate communications department to develop overall strategic initiatives designed to promote DCPG products in the Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana markets.

Hetzer has been with DCPG for 10 years. She previously worked as a senior benefits specialist at an independent consulting and brokerage firm. Hetzer is a graduate of the University of Kentucky, where she earned a degree in health administration. She lives with her family in northern Kentucky.

As director of established business, Finn will continue to coordinate the delivery of renewals and provide maintenance for all in-force business. In addition, she will focus on developing a strategy for renewing business in the healthcare reform environment.

Finn has been with DCPG for seven years. Prior to that, she was a benefit specialist at a Cincinnati-based broker agency. Finn holds a bachelor of science in psychology from Tulane University and a master of social work with a concentration in health and gerontology from the University of Cincinnati. She also has a master of business administration from Wright State University. She lives with her family in Deer Park, Ohio.
