CINCINNATI (April 27, 2022) — The Dental Care Plus Group (DCPG), a DentaQuest company, announced today that Jack Graham and Jennifer Nevin have joined the company to help drive business growth through superior customer service, innovation and operational excellence. Jack has been hired as senior sales representative and Jennifer as account manager. In these positions, they will augment the execution of DCPG’s new business model focused on providing dedicated, one-on-one assistance to customers.

“We are thrilled to welcome these new additions to the DCPG family,” said Jennifer Angello, vice president, commercial market at DentaQuest. “We have been working tirelessly to enhance our personalized service model and are confident that Jack and Jennifer will be great assets to our team.”

Jack Graham joins DCPG with more than 20 years of experience in direct sales, service and implementation of employee health care benefits. Prior to joining the company, Jack served as vice president of business development, Midwest, for WellNet Healthcare, where he led sales efforts for administration services and designed health and medical prescription strategies to improve the quality of health care. In his new role, Jack will educate broker partners on DCPG products and foster existing and new client relationships.

Jennifer Nevin joins DCPG, adding to her more than 30 years working in the insurance industry. Most recently, Jennifer was responsible for client satisfaction at USI Insurance Services, as well as identifying problems and developing strategic solutions to address them. In her new role, Jennifer will provide personalized assistance to clients, enhancing understanding of the new systems in place to better serve them.
